When the CEO of the world’s leading artificial intelligence company is found murdered in his home, former Army CID officer Valerie Marks is thrust into her first case as a homicide detective. Valerie has a gift for reading people, a gift that has never failed her before. But that gift is put to the test when her instincts point her to an impossible suspect—an Alborn from a secret venture with the Pentagon known as Project Nomad.

To learn the truth, Valerie must team up with two men she doesn’t trust—a Green Beret turned government spook from the Pentagon, and the victim’s former partner and leading suspect in the case. But nothing can prepare the trio for the dangers that await them and the existential threat to humanity if the Project Nomad AI has somehow escaped its sandbox.

Jeffrey Wilson and Brian Andrews (Andrews & Wilson) are the best-selling team of multiple covert ops and action-adventure thriller series. They are Navy Veterans turned bestselling authors-- writing with authority from their experiences in both Special Warfare (SEALs) and Submarine force. They work diligently to properly honor our brothers and sisters keeping us safe. They show action and adventure but write stories to show the sacrifices our military makes for our nation truly. Andrews & Wilson are also slated to write the next Tom Clancy book in the Jack Ryan Sr. Series!

As successful fiction writers with vast education and science backgrounds, they have been able to write novels about the Ukraine War and artificial intelligence before it happened. Andrews & Wilson are willing to talk about current events as in AI, the war in Ukraine, and their effects on the world. Fittingly, they are also just released their debut techno-thriller that involves artificial intelligence, THE SANDBOX.

From The Shooting Wire. com

By Jennifer Green
CMP Feature Writer

The Pistol Small Arms Firing School (SAFS) started out with a bang at the National Matches at Camp Perry. The Small Arms Firing School took place on July 10th, 2023, and is geared toward new and intermediate shooters and provides classroom instruction and ends with shooting an Excellence-In-Competition (EIC) match to finish off the day. The Small Arms Firing Schools begin with classroom instruction that covers safety, fundamentals and trigger control among other topics.

Participants gathered in the Hough Theater to begin the SAFS class. SSG Ryan Franks and SSG Walter Johnson of the U.S. Army Marksmanship Unit Service Pistol Team led the instruction. The class covered the basics of pistol marksmanship, discussing minimizing arc of movement, sight alignment and trigger control before explaining the EIC match and course of fire. SSG Johnson hopes that students take away the “safe application of pistol marksmanship.” Each participant in the class was issued an M9 pistol and ammunition on the line. This allows an opportunity for anyone to learn, even if they don’t own a pistol. Participants new to pistol shoot-
