About Ethan Burdick: Ethan Burdick is a rising Nashville-based singer-songwriter who will release his debut project The Treehouse EP on November 13 via Back Blocks Music. The nine track project marks a new chapter for the 21 year old, offering an intimate introduction to the person behind the rapidly building momentum and a collection of songs rooted in faith, love, heartbreak, growing up, family and the experiences that have shaped him. In April, he released his first single “I Get The Picture,” which generated more than five million views on TikTok ahead of its release. The song was added to SiriusXM Hits 1's playlist, earned Burdick recognition as one of the channel's coveted Hits 1 To Watch artists, and landed him on a billboard in Times Square. He quickly followed with the release with two summer singles “Hold You” and “Fine,” which was co-written with Zach Seabaugh and Todd

Clark and produced by Lukas Scott. Burdick made his live debut earlier this year opening for Jelly Roll on his Little Ass Shed Tour and will join Hudson Westbrook this fall for his 22-date Hits Me Tour. The 21-year-old Vancouver, WA native got his start playing drums in marching band, jazz band and through small gigs in his hometown, which led to his discovery of his passion for making music.

In 2025, he moved to Nashville after being discovered via TikTok Live by Back Blocks Founder & CEO, Rakiyah Marshall. For more information and to follow along, please visit his website, TikTok, YouTube, Instagram and Facebook.

The NFL's investment in live music at its international games has grown steadily alongside the games themselves. The league has used its international platform to spotlight artists across genres and markets – from emerging local talent to global headliners – reflecting the diversity of the fans who have made the NFL their own.

"Each year we look to elevate the entertainment we bring to international fans, and in 2026 we have the opportunity to do that at a scale we have never seen before," said Tim Tubito, senior director of global game presentation and entertainment at the NFL. "Finding the right artist for each market is the most important thing we do — and in 2026 we have seven incredible acts to do exactly that, in some of the most iconic stadiums in the world. We want every fan in every one of those venues to feel that this show was made for them."

Sixty-two regular-season NFL games have been played outside the United States with London, Berlin, Munich, Frankfurt, Madrid, Dublin, São Paulo, Mexico City and Toronto having hosted games to date.
